From the President: Winter Work

Winter gave us an early preview this year, with snow and ice on the roads and the roofs. I like to think of this as an opportunity to get my winter gear together early, before winter really kicks in. (Where did I put that long underwear?)

After a busy year, I'm looking forward to a little time off. Of course, when you work for yourself, as most Wisconsin inspectors do, true "time off" is a figment of your imagination, because there's always work to do in the slower season.

Here is a short selection from my winter to-do list:

- Review my report.
- Overhaul my equipment.
- Reach out to my referral sources.
- Review my marketing plan.
- Learn more about how homes are built and repaired.
- Network with other inspectors.
- Learn more about the inspection business.

Infrared Training

Don't forget about the great additional training that WAHI is offering in 2014! The Infra-Red Buildings Application Training (Level 1) will be held Tuesday, February 4 through Friday, February 7. Cost is $850 per person, a significant reduction from the normal fee for this extensive training. Attendance is limited to 25, so sign up soon! Although this is clearly methodology and education that is well outside the state standards for home inspectors, this fascinating technology has many uses in many industries including real estate. Members taking the course who already have an infrared camera should plan to bring theirs to the class.

The event will be held at the Ho-Chunk Conference Center in Baraboo. Attendees should arrange their own lodging, but WAHI Executive Director Julie Arnstein is inquiring with Ho-Chunk regarding room rates. Please contact Julie at 877-399-WAHI or juliewahi@gmail.com by December 31, 2013 if you are interested in attending.

President

But don't forget to spend some of that valuable time with your loved ones, who you may not see as much as you'd like when business is really jumping.

One item that is NOT on my personal to-do list is making sure I've got enough continuing education credits. Because I truly enjoy continuing education, I have a lot of extra credits. I attend monthly WAHI chapter meetings, both annual WAHI seminars, and as many other educational events as I can find time for. Continuing education is what makes good inspectors better, and there is always room for improvement.

But as the Wisconsin Department of Safety and Professional Services has made evident, many inspectors are at least a few CE credits short of the requirement.

So it's convenient for all of us that WAHI's Fall Seminar is fast approaching. I hope to see you all at the Olympia Resort in Oconomowoc on December 6th and 7th. This year's offering is shaping up to be another great opportunity for all WAHI members, whether newly licensed or grumpy veterans, to gain both valuable credits and actual education. If you have not yet signed up, you can also register at the door, so it is never too late to learn something new.

I also want to mention the best reason to attend WAHI events. Yes, you need the credits. Yes, the education is first-rate and at a bargain price. But what I like best – and where I often learn the most – is talking to other inspectors about what they're seeing out there, and what they've learned since I saw them last. I love to hear stories about great saves, about small signs of big problems, about some handy homeowner's latest goofball repair. This is the true value of attending a WAHI event, and I hope to see you all there. (And don't forget the Friday Night Hospitality Suite, where you can meet the vendors and Environmental Initiatives will be concocting their usual creative and disturbingly-colored cocktails.)

Last but not least, the WAHI board is working on setting a meeting with DSPS to discuss the proposed changes to the continuing education requirements for home inspectors. Janet Swandby and Kathi Kilgore from Swandby and Associates will be attending our board meeting on Friday December 5 to discuss any concerns WAHI may have. We will keep all members advised to any changes made by the state.

I'd like to wish all members a very joyous holiday season and a prosperous New Year!

At our November meeting, we did a full review of the State of Wisconsin standards of practice. We discussed how they relate to general inspections and inspection reports. We also discussed the WAHI Arbitration and heard two personal experiences from inspectors regarding the program.

The chapter normally meets on the first Wednesday of each month. Due to production dates, members may not receive a newsletter issue until very close to our meeting date, or even after. To avoid missing a meeting, please mark your calendar in advance.

The November speaker was Affiliate Member Cassidy Kuchenbecker of Environmental Initiatives. Thanks, Cassidy, for an informative presentation about water issues one might encounter at a home inspection.

The next meeting will be Tuesday, December 17th at the Stone Toad, 1109 S. Oneida Street in Menasha. Cocktails and roundtable discussion start at 6 p.m., 6:45 dinner, 7:15 speaker, meeting to follow. The education session will be an expanded version of round 4 of “Stump the Inspector.” There will be stories and photos of confusing, fun, strange, entertaining, disgusting, hazardous, etc. things encountered at inspections. Send your photos to Paul Birschbach and/or Kent Schwanke, or bring them on a memory stick.

I have been using my natural fireplace for years, and it has always drafted well. I went to have my first fire of the season, and I had some smoke coming back into the house. Does this mean my chimney needs cleaning?

It might. It might be many things.

The biggest thing I hear out of this question is, "I went to have my first fire of the season..." Some people get excited about using their fireplace, and will try to have a fire when it is not that cold outside. And, this fall, we have had many days were it gets a little cold and then warms up. The house cannot keep up that quickly, which leads to the chimney having a hard time establishing that tornado effect you need to get the smoke vacuumed up the chimney.

I typically tell people that many houses cannot have a fire in the fireplace unless it is below 40 degrees outside for at least 24 hours. If you go to have a fire then and it is not drafting well after years of it working fine, something else is going on.

Update on DSPS Proposed Rule Changes

By Kathi Kilgore
Swandby/Kilgore Associates, Inc.

In my October column, I reported that the Department of Safety and Professional Services (DSPS) was working with a few legislators to draft a “clean up” bill for a number of regulated professions to make minor, technical changes in State Law.

This legislation was introduced in mid-October by Senator Frank Lasee (R-De Pere) and Representative Dale Kooyenga (R-Brookfield) and referred to legislative committees in both houses. One of the provisions of Assembly Bill 433 and Senate Bill 345 is a change to the continuing education requirement for home inspectors to 40 hours every 2 years instead of the current requirement of 20 hours per year. DSPS wants the continuing education requirement to coincide with the requirement that home inspectors register with the Department every two years.

A public hearing on SB 345 has been held and we will continue to monitor both bills – and all other legislation pending before the Legislature – for its affect on home inspectors.

Rule Changes

DSPS has notified me that once the “clean up” legislation is passed and signed into law in early 2014, the Department will propose changes to the Administrative Rules related to home inspector regulation:

- Change the administrative rule to reflect the new statute pertaining to continuing education requirements - 40 hours of continuing education every 2 years.
- Change the administrative rule to match the statutory renewal date for home inspector registration. Currently, the rule states the renewal date for home inspectors is January 1 of each odd-numbered year. The State Statutes currently set the renewal date as December 15 of each even-numbered year.

In addition, I have learned that DSPS is looking at other changes to the administrative rules pertaining to how continuing education credits can be earned by home inspectors. A very rough draft of a rule proposal was shared with Swandby/Kilgore Associates, Inc. and I forwarded it to the WAHI Board. The Board reviewed the rule draft and has a few questions and concerns.

I am in the process of scheduling a meeting with key Department leadership and staff to get answers to WAHI’s questions. When I know more, the information will be shared with WAHI leadership and members.

Contact us at 608.286.9599 or swandby@swandby.com or Kilgore@swandby.com. We always enjoy hearing from WAHI members.

Communication

All member-to-member or member-to-association disputes must go through the Membership Committee. A member going public with a member or association dispute will be grounds for disciplinary action. The Membership Committee will implement this policy. Contact Committee co-chairs Doug Hoerth (920-375-0723 or finallookinspectionsservices@yahoo.com) or Glenn Schmidt (920-923-0440 or gcschmidt1@att.net).

Chapter Presidents

Please give your WAHI Board Member-at-Large an opportunity to share information from recent Board meetings. They are the liaison between your chapter and the WAHI Board.

Newsletter Deadline

The deadline of the 20th of each month for submissions to the newsletter will be strictly enforced, with the occasional exception when a chapter meeting falls after that date. Chapter secretaries should provide the minutes as soon as possible. Thank you for your cooperation.

Education House – Inspection Review and Training

Friday, December 6th, 2013

This on-site inspection event is comprised of two parts – an inspection review in the morning, followed by inspection training in the afternoon. WAHI has obtained the use of a home in the Oconomowoc area for this program.

Inspection Review

This peer review event is an opportunity for you to evaluate and refine your inspection skills with the aid of a panel of your peers, rather than a person in a black robe with a big “hammer” (i.e. gavel). Results will be kept strictly confidential.

Participants will have two-hours to complete their inspection (electrical panels will already be removed, ladders in place, cover off the furnace, etc., to aid in the time limit). Upon completion participants will present their findings and their completed report to the panel as if to a client – the panel have inspected the house and identified defects.

Participants are asked to bring two recently completed inspection reports for review by the panel to see if they are meeting state standards. There will be “must find, must report” items that the panel will be looking for. The panel will be focusing on the identification of major defects, not issues such as windows or doors sticking. During the inspection process communication between participants will not be allowed as this event is intended to help participants evaluate their personal skill level. The morning session will be worth three continuing education credits and is limited to the first 10 registrants.

Inspection Training

The afternoon session will be inspection training at the same property. Experienced experts will be posted throughout the house in numerous locations to provide approximately 45-minute presentations on how to inspect various components, focusing on the WI Standards of Practice. Participants will then rotate to the next area/presenter. The training will take place from 1:00 pm to 5:00 pm and will be worth four continuing education credits. The afternoon portion will be limited to the first 40 registrants.

WAHI Member cost to attend this event is as follows:

Educational Review (morning) - $75.00

Inspection Training (afternoon) - $60.00

Review and Training (all day) - $135.00

Non-members, add $30.00 to the fees stated

All participants must preregister as space is limited – no on-site registrations.

All participants will be notified by a member of the Education House Committee with the specific location.

Lunch break from 12:00 pm to 1:00 pm for all day participants - on own.

For further information, contact Chair Kent Schwanke at (920) 229 -7854 or kents@slhi.com
